SASKATCHEWAN

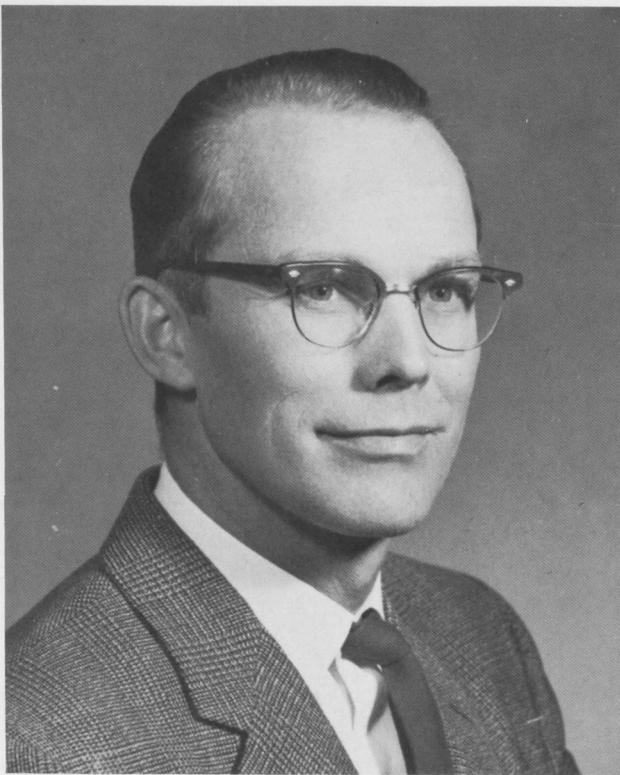

TEACHERS

COLLEGE

REGINA,

SASKATCHEWAN

1962

*Minister of Education
The Honourable
O.A. Turnbull*

I am happy to have this opportunity to greet the 1962 graduates of Teachers' College, Regina.

Only a few months ago you were students and now you leave as teachers. Last fall you knew one side of the teaching-learning process and now you have had a look at the other side of the coin. During your time as teachers in training you have, I know, learned much about the philosophy of education and the techniques of teaching. In addition, and perhaps, even more important, you have matured as people by getting an insight into the needs of the child, the community, and society. I hope that you want to go on developing this insight because it will lead to a real understanding of your fellow man. To pursue this thought a little further, I believe that understanding will eventually lead to sympathy and that sympathy will engender charity, the greatest of the virtues.

You are going into a profession which will demand your best not as a lonely individual on the edge of civilization but as a member of a team. Never forget that pupils, parents, fellow teachers, and superintendents will be on your side if you want them enough to value the individual pupil above all else and to devote all of your ability and energy to the job at hand.

I wish each graduate success and happiness in the noble profession you have chosen.

O.A. TURNBULL.

Director of Teacher Training

Dr. J. W. Tait

You are the largest class of graduates in teacher education in the history of Saskatchewan. You have figuratively sat for a year at the feet of a competent group of master teachers. It is interesting to speculate how great will be your impact on the history of this Province. Not long ago, I saw the Yearbook of the class of 1907 and in reviewing the names of the graduates, I was amazed to note how many of them became prominent in the life of Saskatchewan and, in some cases, the other Provinces of Canada.

I mention this because I wish to call to your attention the fact that you have had a good start. The profession which you have chosen is by far the one in which you can make the greatest contribution to the present and the future. However, you have just begun. Local, national and world society is changing at almost a terrific pace. Your chance for success and leadership in this changing world will depend in large measure on the degree to which you improve your qualifications, submit to personal sacrifice to meet the challenges which will most certainly confront you and face courageously the unexplored frontiers which are already appearing on the educational horizon.

As you go forth to your various schools in Saskatchewan, my good wishes will follow you. It is my hope that you will be ambitious, hard-working and dedicated to the development of childhood and the good of the communities which you serve. Perhaps, in another fifty years, some future Director of Teacher Training will review the Yearbook of 1962 and be amazed at the size of the contribution made by the class of 1962 to their generation and to the welfare of their Province and their Country.

J.W. TAIT.

*Principal of Saskatchewan
Teachers' College, Regina
Dr. S. W. Steinson*

"When you are old and grey and full of sleep,
And nodding by the fire, take down this book,
And slowly read, and dream . . . . ."

W. B. Yeats.

*M*embers of our staff hope that in future, when you look back over the year you spent at Teachers' College, you will consider it one of the happiest and most productive in your lives.

We have enjoyed our association with you during this past year. Working with such a happy band of warriors has helped to keep us young in spirit. A former principal once said to the students of his day, "You chat so affably; you sing so heartily; you smile so convincingly; you respond so eagerly." I would add: When you converge upon and into the College building, 700 strong, it feels like of breath of Spring!

We trust that the contacts with the members of our staff have increased your awareness of the importance of teaching as a profession. As your instructors we have worked diligently to provide an environment conducive to your continued growth and development. In countless ways you have shown that you have appreciated our efforts.

You have had an opportunity this year to become acquainted with a host of young people whose interests and ambitions are similar to your own. This has been a unique experience, so much so that not a few of you will shed a silent tear at the prospect of leaving so many friends behind.

And now you are preparing to begin a new chapter in life, one that offers limitless opportunities in the years to come.

May success attend you in all your future efforts!

Sincerely,

S. W. STEINSON.

President

The philosophy of education of the western world will undoubtedly determine the future of the whole world.

Each individual should be able to realize his own aspirations. He should also have the opportunity to develop the abilities of which he himself may not be aware. However, this individual development cannot be allowed to advance to the point that it will interfere with the general welfare of the group. In this time of great opportunity and great challenge, none has more influence than educators.

Teachers' College in one short year has endeavoured to provide us with the essential philosophies and methodology. But the College has only christened us on a long voyage for which we have been preparing from the time of our birth. In education, we call upon every experience, every ability, and every particle of knowledge we possess. We will encounter many obstacles but we must continually strive and work to develop high ideals and intellectual growth in every individual. Success will not always be evident but perhaps we may have the opportunity to see it revealed later.

On behalf of the students, I take this opportunity of extending our sincere thanks and appreciation to all members of the staff for their guidance, interest, and inspiration, both in and out of the classroom. I wish to thank each member of the Students' Representative Council for his co-operation and cheerfulness as we worked together in the best interests of the College.

As we part and go our own way, I quote John Oxenham:

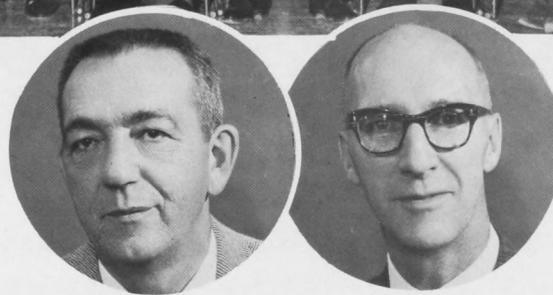

"To every man there openeth
A Way, and Ways, and a Way.
And the High Soul climbs the High Way
And the Low Soul gropes the Low,
And in between, on the misty flats,
The rest drift to and fro.
But to every man there openeth
A High Way and a Low,
And every man decideth
The way his soul shall go."

May Teachers' College graduates choose the right road to travel.

We have grown in many aspects at Teachers' College, perhaps intellectually, morally, spiritually; we have become acquainted with many new friends. Let us cherish all we have acquired.

VIC CRAIG.

The Students' Representative Council Executive consisted of the following officers:

President - Vic Craig

Vice-President - Gerald Spicer (1st term)
- Terry Hammond (2nd term)

Athletic Directorate - Bruno Fornika

Drama Directorate - Hugh Bitz

Echoes Directorate - Yvette Burns

Intramural Directorate - Linda Olson

Secretary - Linda Martin

Treasurer - Paul Gowans

Music Directorate - Ed Christoffel

Social Directorate - Sheila Ward

S.T.F. Directorate - Jack Harris

Yearbook Directorate - Mrs. Jeanette Friskie

The Executive, along with the class presidents, formed the Council for 1961-62 school year.

The Students' Representative Council was responsible for the supervision and execution of all student activities. The planning of a budget, which provided the necessary financing for the various activities, was the major work of the Council.

The Council met every Tuesday for regular business and special meetings were held when necessary.

We were fortunate to be able to send three delegates to the Western Canada Student Teachers' Conference and one to the S.T.F. Convention. Sales of Christmas cards and sale of rings were organized and executed by the Council.

We would like to thank the staff, especially Mr. Deutscher and Mr. Hill, our advisers, for their co-operation and guidance. Our success would have been impossible without their aid.

To all students who made our activities a success we say "Thanks!" Without your participation we would not have enjoyed the successful year we have.

Editorial

"Time waits for no man." Yes, ten months have passed since we first began our journey into the realm of the student educator. Each day has overflowed with a variety of activities, new experiences, and responsibilities.

With the hope that this Yearbook may help you recall the happy friendships you formed and experiences you enjoyed during the past year, we give you, in part, a story of the school year 1961-62 at the Saskatchewan Teachers' College, Regina.

I wish to thank the members of the Yearbook Directorate, our faculty advisors -- Mr. Groom, Mr. Stephenson, and Dr. Buck, and those who have helped both directly and indirectly in the compiling of this Yearbook; those without whose help and co-operation this publication would have been impossible.

It seems only yesterday we entered these halls of learning; today we stand at the threshold of a new and challenging experience as we join the ranks of the oldest and noblest profession. Our future success or failure depends on how well we have absorbed the standards of character and work which this college has set before us.

Longfellow offered us a wonderful piece of advice when he wrote:

"Look not mournfully to the past -- it comes not back again;
wisely improve the present -- it is thine; go forth to meet the shadowy future without fear, and with a manly heart."

(MRS.) JEANETTE FRISKIE.

Valedictory

Dr. Steinson, honoured guests, parents, and fellow teachers:

For this honour, I thank you - my friends and fellow teachers. Your friendship and trust is a much-treasured gift, and I hope that what I say is an expression of your feelings as well as mine.

The reminiscences of this year will be recorded in our Year book and in many a girl's cherished diary. Therefore, instead of enumerating the past events, let us recall what we have gained from this year, a year of broadening horizons.

We have gained individuality. Yes, among this mass of over six hundred people, we have become greater individual personalities, each guided by our most capable and experienced instructors in searching for an image of the kind of teacher we wish to be. They have told us, and, I believe them implicitly, that once we have our image clearly defined in our own minds, our efforts will never be wasted. Imagine ourselves defeated, success would never be ours; imagine nothing, drifters we could not help but be; but imagine ourselves successful, and immeasurable success will be within our reach.

However, before we could ever create such an image, we had to learn to accept ourselves with our individual handicaps -- we learned to conduct a class in music while we ourselves couldn't carry a tune; we learned to stand up and make speeches of introduction when we thought our legs could never support us; we taught samples lessons to our fellow students with the great fear inside us that our ideas would not be acceptable. If we had rebelled against our handicaps or had resorted to self-pity, we would never have been able to put the first notch in our pointer. We had to learn to make the most of our best. Our efforts were never in vain. Only after we had accepted ourselves and had established our image before us as a goal to be attained, were we able to reap the benefits of our College. Everything we needed was right here wrapped up in a course of nineteen subjects, much extracurricular activity, and an expert staff who gave unstintingly of their time, energy, and love of their profession. Opportunities for personality-building and creativeness were many. This guided search for our image of the teachers we wish to be has been, I feel, the essence of our course.

Like a cloud in the sky we have been building and growing, accumulating knowledge like moisture so that we might pour forth this knowledge to the students that sit before us like dry soil ready to accept all that we can offer. This is an enormous challenge not to be trifled with or taken passively. It lies with us, to teach the child to think constructively and critically, making use of learned facts and skills. But you know and I know that we can't stop here, for democracy demands that we teach them to be good citizens with pride in themselves, in their work, in their ideals; to have respect for others; to have an appreciation for truth and their heritage; to have imagination; to recognize that freedoms have inherent responsibilities; and above all, to have faith. Indeed we must bring joy into the lives of those we teach just as the rain brings joy to the tiller of the dry soil. This we realize only from the theoretical standpoint; the true impact of the immensity of our task will come only after we are given a classroom of our own. But again, perhaps it is this challenge which appeals to us most, which inspires us to want to teach.

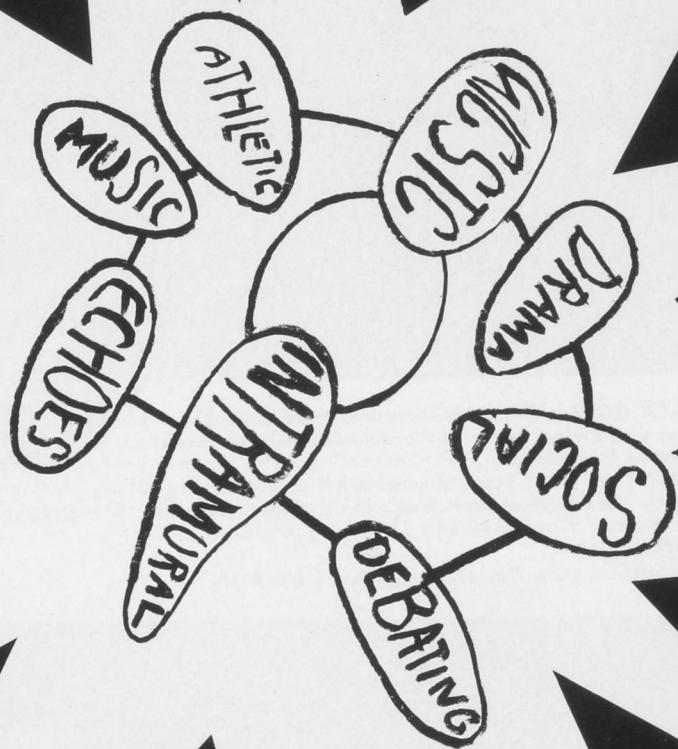

Today, in receiving our certificates, we have gained a certain measure of self-confidence which has rekindled our faith and courage to want to teach. It is at this time, when we are bidding farewell and looking to the future that we must pause and cast a backward glance to thank those who have attended each rung of our ladder thus far. Each step of the way has been aided and watched by our loving parents. We thank them, although we can never fully repay them for their trust and sacrifice for our sake. Twelve rungs have been influenced by our past teachers to whom we owe much gratitude for their inspiration and unselfish contributions to our education. We hope that they will find us worthy to join their ranks. The last rung of our ladder is labelled "Teachers' College." The memories and thanks we owe to it are innumerable. We thank the College teachers for showing us the way and providing a high-quality model to follow. We thank the people who provided us with homes and showed us love and concern. We also have a great deal for which to thank each other. Through close fellowship, we have learned from the university students, the mothers and fathers, and the men and women of other creeds and other cultures whom we found within our midst. We thank God for His guidance and enduring love and for His Son, Jesus Christ, the greatest Teacher of all time.

Thus we have arrived at the beginning of a profession which enlists our courage, our faith, our co-operation, our fraternity, and our hearts. We know that we are inexperienced and that we will continue to need the helping hand of others. Our hearts beat with trepidation at the thought of our first day in our new school, but we would not turn back. It is the moment for which we have been preparing and we are prepared in part at least. We have our image before us.

In parting, I would like to say, "God bless you and keep you safe always." Remember that:

As sure as springtime follows snow,
As sure as there is light,
As sure as rain makes flowers grow,
God makes each day more bright.
And so each blessing of His love,
Each grace He sends you, too
Just shows once more that God above
Is watching over you.

Gloria Hennan.

Western Canada Student Teachers' Conference

George Waldo

Topic 1 - Resolved that sex education should be carried out in elementary schools.
All delegates were in favour of sex education in the elementary school except your delegates who opposed this on the grounds that:

- (a) Sex education should be a teaching task of the home.
- (b) Teachers are not adequately trained to teach the moral as well as the physiological aspects of this topic.

The conclusion arrived at on this topic was: Resolved that sex education should not be included in the school curriculum until such time as teachers are adequately prepared to teach the subject.

Topic 11 - Resolved that French should be taught in the elementary schools.

All delegates, with the exception of the delegates from the University of Saskatchewan and Saskatchewan Teachers' College, Regina, were in favour of having French included in the school programme at the primary level.

The delegates who were against this resolution opposed it on the grounds that:

- (a) There is no chance to practise French outside of the school.
- (b) Bilingualism tends to divide our nation into two exclusive groups.
- (c) It is impossible for teacher training institutions to supply an adequate background of the language and the methods necessary to successfully teach French.
- (d) There is already too much content in the school programme.

After torrid discussion periods, the conclusion that no resolution could be agreed upon was arrived at by the conference delegates.

Few finer opportunities for meeting other college students and exchanging ideas are given to students than sending them, as delegates, to the Western Canada Student Teachers' Conference held this year in Calgary.

Patrick McNally

We three would like to this take opportunity to thank you, the students of Saskatchewan Teachers' College, for nominating and electing us as representatives to the Conference.

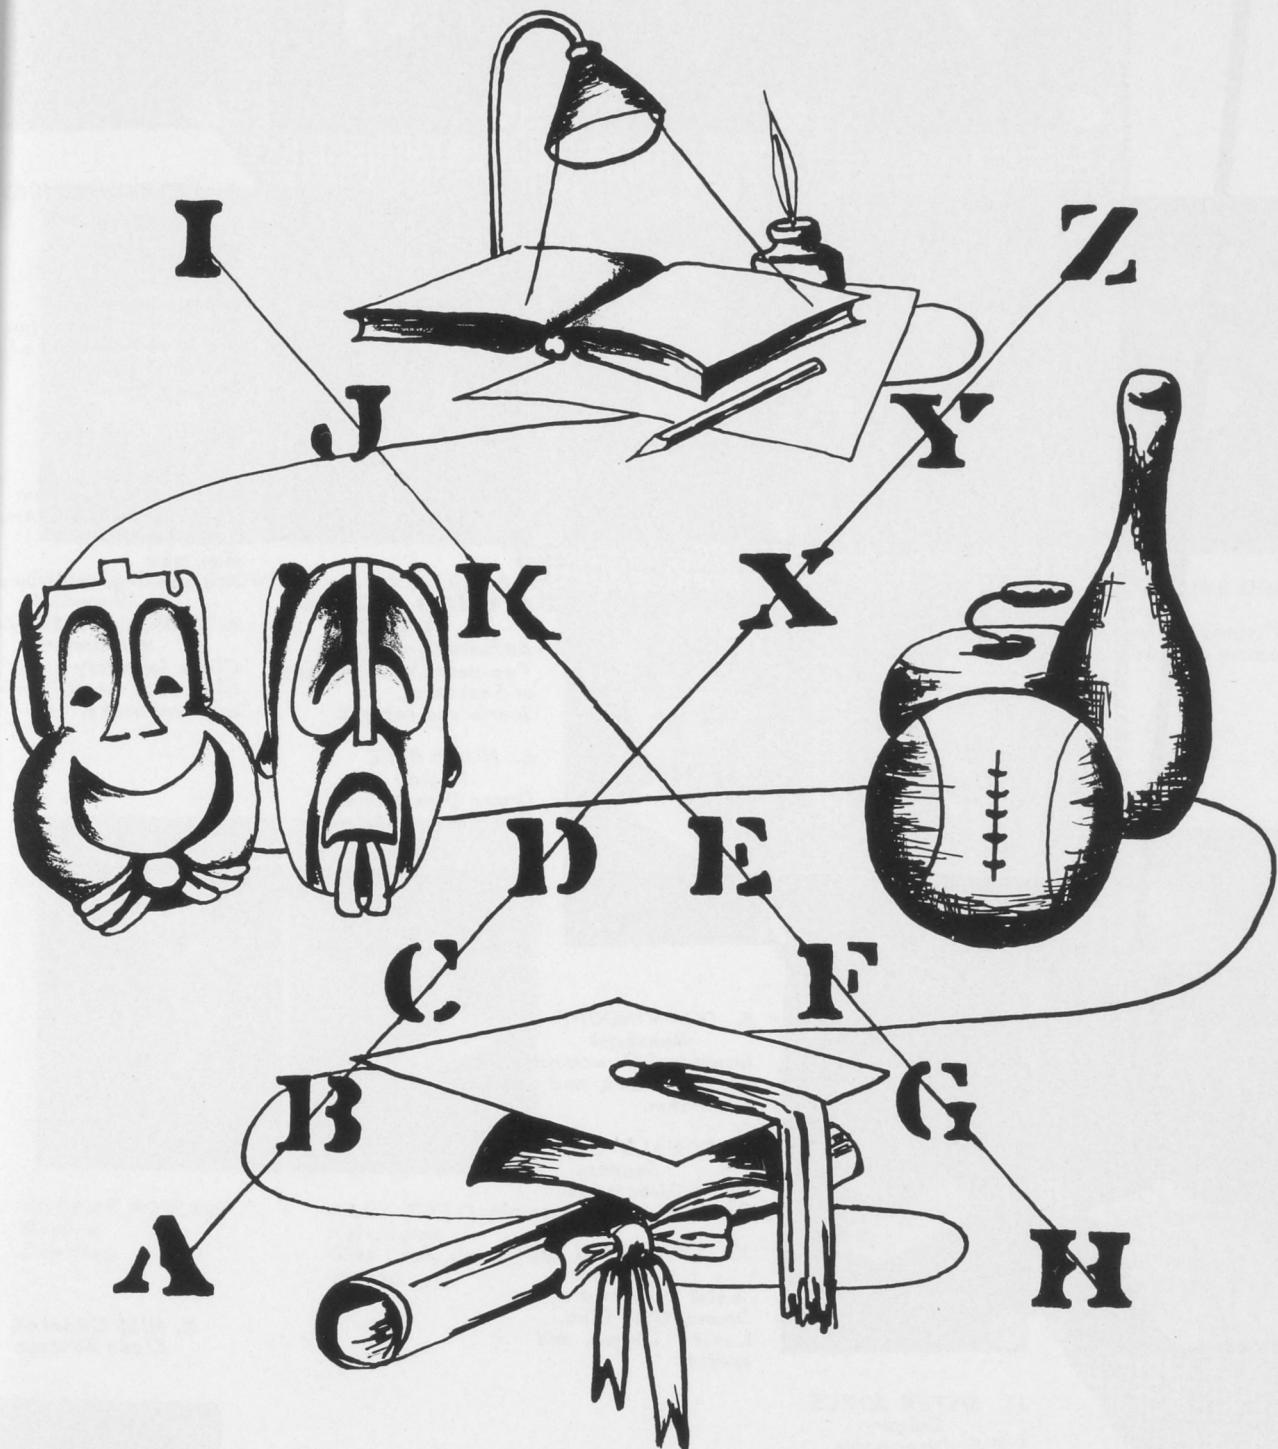

Many conferences are play days, and some are much toil with little associated pleasure. We, however, were fortunate to attend one which struck a happy medium. Mornings and afternoons were spent exchanging ideas with teachers and training personnel from many areas of education. In the evenings, under the guidance of our conference chairmen, we were invited to university basketball games, dances, and banquets.

It is our sincere hope that through our briefs and debates, we adequately represented your views on sex education and bilingualism.

Again, may we express our sincere gratitude to our faculty advisers, Mr. R.J. Deutscher and Dr. H. Garfinkle.

James Martin

Executive:
 President - Gordon Fuller
 Vice-president - Don Matheson
 Secretary - Faye Johnson
 Treasurer - Corinne Kurtz

The Inter-varsity Christian Fellowship Group is composed of students of several religious denominations who understand the necessity of living a Christ-centered life. Our motto, "To know Christ, and to make Him known," sincerely reflects the attitude of each of our forty members. Our objectives are three-fold, dealing with the spiritual growth of ourselves, the active witness to others and the promoting of interest in missionary work in other lands.

I. V. C. F. meets every Tuesday at 12:30 P.M. in the music room and every Tuesday and Thursday morning at 8:15 A.M. for a short period of prayer and devotion.

I. V. C. F. wishes to thank its sponsor, Mr. Jacob Janz, for all he has done for us in making our group a success.

An innovation this year has been the setting up of a Music Directorate, through the Students' Union. Mr. Christoffel was elected chairman and the committee has been active in promoting music activities throughout the college.

Four extracurricular groups were organized by Mr. Cowan and were active in the programmes held during the year. Vocal groups included a large Glee Club, Ladies' Choir, and Male Voice Choir, who participated in many events and concerts both at the college and various institutions in Regina. The Glee Club travelled to Saskatoon to sing with the Saskatchewan Music Educators' massed choir. The College Band played for concerts and athletic events.

I Want to be Free

I want to be free
to walk the shores of the ocean
in my bare feet.
Free
to weep to the sea,
to tell my sorrows to the wind,
to cry my anguish unto the hills.
Free
to strike out at Fate
till gradually
I find harmony
perhaps contentment.

Barbara Israels.

A SMALL BOY

A small boy raised his head
And asked his mother why
All the people in the world
Were made to live and die.
He asked if we were made by God,
(And this, he was told, is true),
Why the bad were so very many,
And the good so very few.
As he looked into her eyes
It was this he wished to know
"When I am old and soon to die,
Where is it I must go?"

Of a simple and loving mother
He wished to know these things,
With the innocent, deep sincerity
The eyes of a small boy brings.
Of course, he didn't realize
As she knelt to kiss his cheek,
These answers that he wanted
Are those that wise men seek.
If this boy should grow to manhood,
And these answers he could give,
He would herald to the world
The reasons for which we live.

EXAMINATION FEVER

Well, have I had it! ... I've studied so much;
History: dates, and locations, and such;
Explorers, geography, settling the West;
(My mind will go blank when they hand me that test!).

Characteristics of doodles with themes,
Collages of paper-with-string in my dreams,
Fold-over, x-ray, and skyline and base;
(I just spilled my crayons all over the place!).

Tarsiers, Lemurs, and the Anthropoid Ape!
My spelling's enough to make anyone gape.
The Eras and Epochs fall weakly in line;
The modes of selection?? I think we've learned nine.

Reading and "writing" for Monday to learn,
Check lists, and readers, and phonics in turn.
Language "ain't" bad if you know how to talk --
Just listen each time that you come up the walk!

Science?? Oh, brother!! There's so much to know:
The shapes of amoeba, and how mosses grow;
Cytology, botany, birdwatching too!
I'm sure I'll be dizzy before I'm through.

Tuesday's a halfday; am I glad for that!
First Math. and then Methods --- they'll knock me out flat.
Conditions of learning, and methods of same ---
I'll be so confused I won't know my own name.

Wednesday's no better. Now don't you agree?
Two morning exams, but the parts total three;
They tell me that Health and Phys. Ed. are alike,
But try to explain that to an eight-year-old tyke!

Orchestra instruments --- which one does what?
It might be the trumpet, but then it might not!
Vibrato, glissando, arpeggio, and trill,
Scales, chords, and key signatures --- juggled at will.

I'm not just too sure if my brain will survive;
I think that next Wednesday I'll still be alive.
So much to remember -- confusing at times:
It's addled me so that I'm making up rhymes!!

Ellen Brell.

HAND-SHAKEs.

Yester-even, I met a friend -
(My friends, these, oh 'tis sure they be,
Though this a satire may seem.
For if mine eyes doth have a gleam,
'Tis only for a little glee,
Nay not for any other end.)

"Met a friend," said I. Did I not? -
'Twas this that brought to my recall
Times when I had to give my hand
To a new member of my band
Of acquaintance. Fine folk withal,
Though for hand-shakes, they're a weird lot!

First was this good old aunt I knew,
So sweet and so affectionate,
Who took your hand, began to talk,
Across the room began to walk,
Oddly forgetful of your state,
Held on for an hour or two.

Better still, this goodly prelate,
Who says to me each time we meet:
"What is your name? Do I know you?"
Good grief, what should I do? 'Tis two,
Three times before we've met! I greet
Him with extended hand. Sad fate!

For my firm holding of the hand
Does contrast strangely with his own.
Aye, 'tis sure, its very deadness
Nigh shames me of my eagerness.
F'r all my willingness I must own,
I know not how to shake a hand.

For such abuse, please pardon me.
Stoning, deserve those of my kind.
Railing, no man should have to stand!
But 'twas my hope, you understand,
A weary soul, you would not mind
To treat to smiles more than to tea.

Doris Robin.

END OF THE BEGINNING

Out in the darkest depths of space
In view of the solar's flaming face,
Celestial bodies watched the birth
Of a counterpart to be known as Earth.

The new arrival circled the sun,
And its pompous life was now begun;
Upon the face of this tiny sphere
Was planted the seed that put us here.

The gift of life was given in vain;
One may flourish, ten dwell in pain;
From out of this tiny, fertile seed,
Evolved a lustful, hating creed.

Now we begin our history,
A great struggle for supremacy.
To live in peace was not our fate;
The fires of life are fed with hate.

A final struggle soon begins,
The conflict which no one wins;
Heavenly bodies that watched our birth
Now sadly await the death of Earth.

Dave McInnis.

CONGRATULATIONS U.S.A.

Congratulations, United States!
Your mighty deed is done;
You have unlocked the doors to Heaven;
A new exploration you have begun.

You have roared with jet age power
Through the threshold of God's domain.
Wouldn't it be a disappointment
If your probings were in vain?

You fight, you strive and struggle;
To conquer space is your aim.
Now that you have mounted the barrier,
What is it you hope to gain?

I don't see why we struggle
To reach this outer space;
We have problems right at home
That we can't seem to face.

The entire world is settled;
There are no lands to win,
So we turn our eyes to Heaven;
A new conquest we begin.

Dave McInnis.

Someone has said that the best education in the world is that got by struggling to get a living. Perhaps this is the story of Ireland, that little island of unsurpassed beauty, with its green fields stretching for miles, its gently sloping hills, its rugged coastline, sandy beaches, and the blue sea never far away. This "little bit of heaven," about two hundred and fifty miles long by one hundred and fifty broad, is known not only for its beauty of scenery. Many are the sons who have left her shores to become leaders in the world. It was from Ireland that Saint Andrew went to become the patron saint of Scotland. Marie Irish says, "In the United States in particular the Irish labourer has helped to build railroads, erect cities and develop beauty; the brawn of the humble worker has been matched by the brain of the leaders". Many notables across the world claim to be Irish: soldiers, politicians, lawyers, public officials, leaders of industry, and writers.

Of course someone has said, "There are only two sorts of people in the world - those who are Irish and those who wish they were." We have a proud heritage and along with this come not only the "gift of the gab" but the "sweetest music this side of heaven." What Irishman can refrain from boasting when he hears the music from "the old sod"?

Nowhere will be found such a vast storehouse of truly representative folk songs - plaintive, gay, breathing a love of country, or descriptive of some natural mannerism, coupled with a lift of romance. Irish music brings delight to the popular ear as well as to the ear of the musician, and it is not easy to say wherein lies its chief beauty and strength. Two very opposite qualities - a pathetic tenderness and a spirited gaiety are prominent characteristics which perhaps are partly responsible for the firm grip Irish song and music have on the affections of almost all people.

In these modern days, with Berlin, Korea, and many other countries divided, it is not so surprising to the outsider to find that this tiny island contains two separate identities - Northern Ireland or Ulster, still part of the United Kingdom and Southern Ireland or Eire - a republic. Ulster, largely Protestant has about thirty per cent of the population and about one sixth of the land area. Eire is predominantly Roman Catholic. The people in the central area and in the South are very poor, but my opening statement applies to both North and South. Those in the North, hardworking "small farmers", or workers in the shipbuilding, rope-making, linen, or brewery industries, struggle to get a living.

Queen's University, Belfast and Trinity College, Dublin, are well known for their high standard of education (and by high standard I do not mean the forty per cent bonus which was granted in the South for school examinations, written in Gaelic, to encourage the use of the native language.) Queen's University has students, not only from the urban and farm areas in Ulster as well as from England, Scotland and Wales, but from Hungary, Ghana, Nigeria, the British West Indies, and Pakistan.

I do not claim to be an expert on the Irish educational system, but I shall try to give a few facts about education in Ulster before the new Educational Bill, passed in 1946. A few years ago, when I took my eight-year-old daughter back for a visit, she had the opportunity of attending the little two-room country school, where I started my education, and of listening to the same teacher. I am afraid she got quite a shock. When she returned to her school in Saskatchewan she told her teacher she would not like to go to school in Ireland because the pupils had to work too hard. Now in grade twelve she finds she has to work here too!

Attendance at school was compulsory between the ages of five and fourteen years. In the Public Elementary Schools no fees were charged. The Primary room had Junior Infants, Senior Infants, Grade 1 and Grade 11. The other room had Grades 111 to V111 inclusive. A clever pupil could skip a grade or take two grades in one year. Many pupils finished schooling after Grade V111. A few scholarships (but they were very few) were available for bright students going to a secondary school. Some went to a technical school during the day or attended night classes in business essentials and woodworking or mechanics. Those who could afford to pay fees attended a secondary school for four or five years. To encourage students to enter before the age of twelve, some schools offered a reduction in fees for the four or five years. After the second year in secondary school the student would write a government examination, called the Junior Certificate, and, if successful, would proceed with at least two more years' education. Those who intended to teach in elementary schools wrote the King's Scholarship examination which gave them entrance to Stranmillis Training College for a two year course. Those who intended to go to Queen's University wrote the government Senior Certificate examination. Teachers for secondary schools had to take a university degree, with at least two courses in any subject they intended to teach. A diploma course in education was available but not necessary. Inspectors in each subject visited the schools periodically to listen and report on the teachers.

Some of the secondary schools had kindergarten and primary departments. A wealthy parent could, by paying fees, send his child to the same school from the age of five to sixteen years. Such a child would start French in his first year and would acquire a knowledge of algebra and geometry before the age of twelve. In the regular secondary school course, French in all grades, and a second language, Latin, German, or Greek, for at least two years, was compulsory. Some choice was then given, domestic economy could be taken instead of chemistry or physics. History and geography were separate subjects. Physical education or gymnastics was compulsory - at least one period per week in the gymnasium with a qualified instructor. Outdoor games were ground hockey for the girls and rugby for the boys. The last period two days a week with an extra hour after school was used for instruction for those who wished to play. Games with other schools were usually arranged on Saturdays. In the summer, badminton, tennis and handball were the main non-supervised games. Daily exercises were compulsory in the elementary schools.

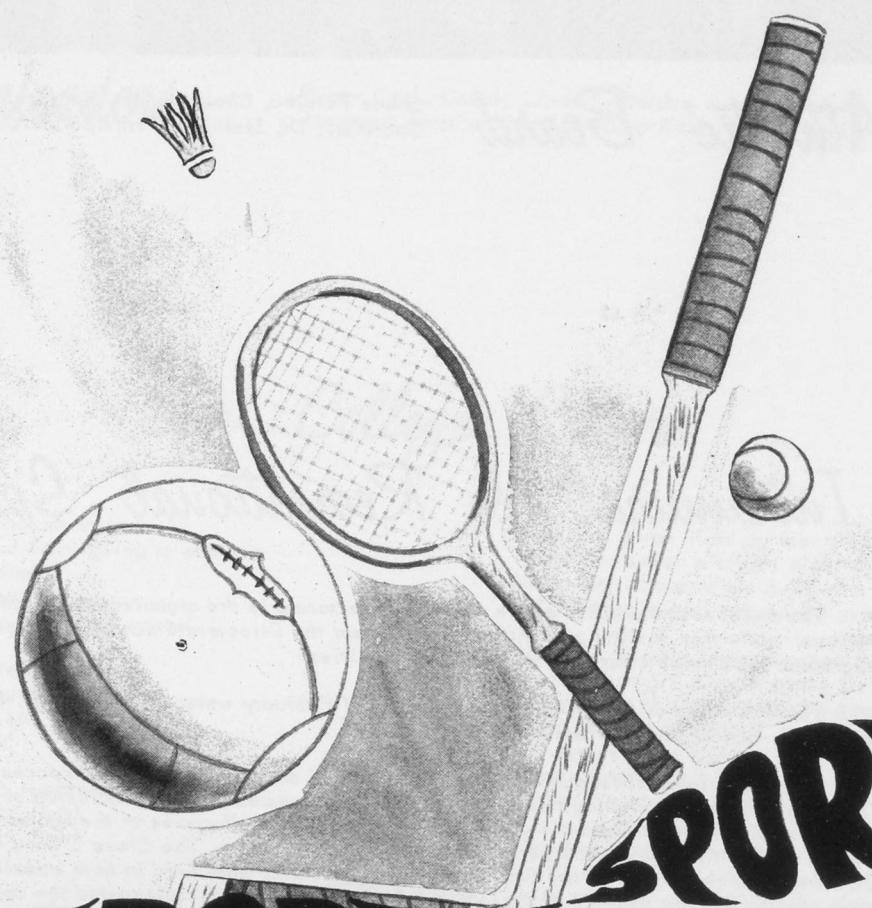

Many of the schools were co-educational but there were also private girls', boys' and boarding schools. The principles of hard work, plenty of homework, respect for teachers, have perhaps been changed slightly with the new system. We did not suffer too much, but, on looking back, the main objectives of the teachers seemed to have been those of acquiring knowledge for examination purposes only. I can't remember too much emphasis on motivation; it was "Do it or else!" The happiness and welfare of the pupil were secondary.

The New Education Bill has brought many changes. The compulsory leaving age has been changed to fifteen years. Secondary education, with certain reservations, is now free. It must be appropriate to the abilities and aptitudes of the pupils, and it is given in intermediate schools, technical - intermediate schools or in grammar schools. An "eleven plus" examination determines to which type of school a pupil will be sent.

Only the best is good enough in this competitive world, so education is expanding. Classes are too big and more teachers are required. Answering the question, "Can't we get on with the three R's and leave all the business of responsibility to the parents and the parsons?" Sir Ronald Gould said, in his address on "Education For Responsibility", "Well you can, if you think schools should produce nothing but efficient machine-fodder, people who know how to earn a living, but not how to live." "If the schools are really concerned with goodness in men, in our political institutions and in society, freedom and responsibility must affect all that is done in schools."

The basic philosophy of teaching the child how to live and improve his democratic way of life is common both to Ireland and to Canada. In Canada, however, our young people have much more opportunity. Education to any degree is available for those who want to work - no one is barred. It is a common practice for the student to work his way through college - not so in Ireland. Many more Scholarships are available here to further education, and more jobs are offered in this vast country with its smaller population. I was told some time ago by a former Irish teacher, now a professor in a Canadian university, that the Senior Certificate or University Entrance Examination in Ulster is the same standard as the first year university here. I am not in a position to make a comparison. It seems that the students in Canada today cover a very wide field in education. Standards have been raised, and, from what we read in our Saskatchewan Teachers' Federation Magazine, they must be raised much more to satisfy the demands of modern living.

Intramural & Recreational Sports

The major responsibility of the Athletic Directorate is the organization of athletic and recreational activities for the student body. This year the Directorate can be proud of the varied programme which was offered in very limited facilities.

The activities of the programme to the end of February were: touch football, bowling, volleyball, curling, hockey and badminton.

The touch football league which was made up of six teams had a very successful season. There were 36 mixed bowling teams divided into two leagues. At the conclusion of the regular league, a roll-off determined the college champion. Volleyball games at the noon-hour created a great deal of interest for the period of November to February. The Class C boys and the A-J girls were the champions of the two leagues. Tournaments were held in both badminton and table tennis, and the winners of these events very successfully represented the college in the annual Sports Day with Saskatoon. A curling club of 44 rinks played each week at the Civil Service Rink. An extremely successful bonspiel concluded the curling activities.

March was the busiest month with mixed basketball, the Tumbling Club, and the "Fitness Month" programme keeping the gym continually busy.

Following the spring student teaching, softball, baseball, and track and field concluded the intramural activities.

All of these games were played outside of Teachers' College with the home games being played at Balfour Technical High School.

The Comets swept the series with Brandon College, split games with Dawson County Junior College, Glendive, Montana, and lost both games to Custer County Junior College, Miles City, Montana. In the traditional series with the Saskatoon Teachers' College, the Comets easily defeated their northern rivals in both games. In the final home game the Comets were defeated by the University of Manitoba Junior Bisons. ## ANNUAL SPORTS DAYS

REGINA

Regina played host to Saskatoon Teachers' College on February 3rd. The day got under way with the official welcoming of the participants and spectators.

Regina won all events which included: badminton, basketball, bowling, curling, hockey, table tennis, and volleyball.

The organization of the day was the responsibility of Dennis Kerr and Terry Hammond who, along with their various committees, did an excellent job of planning and conducting the event.

The day ended with a dance following the basketball game.

SASKATOON

Three bus loads of participants and spectators left early February 24th to compete against Saskatoon.

Victory did not come as easily for the Regina teams, but we still managed to win ten of the seventeen events. Our victories were in table tennis and basketball; badminton, bowling, and volleyball were split between the two schools, but Saskatoon won the curling and the hockey events.

The day ended with a dance and a long, noisy ride home.

METEORS

The Meteors were the Saskatchewan Teachers' College entry in the Junior College Basketball League. The league was composed of: Briercrest Bible Institute, Canadian Bible College, Campion College, Luther College, University of Saskatchewan, Regina Campus, and Teachers' College.

The league proved to be a worthwhile experience for the Meteors even though the calibre of play was far beyond them. The team did not win any of its ten games.

Mr. G. E. Gray was the coach and the student-manager was Terry Stephenson.

COMETS ---- VARSITY HOCKEY

Briercrest Bible Institute, Luther College, Campion College, University of Saskatchewan, Regina Campus, and Teachers' College were the entries in the Junior College League. The Comets defeated Campion and Luther, tied with Regina Campus, but lost to Briercrest. The team completed the season with five points, good enough for a tie with Campion for second place in the league. In the sudden-death play-off game with Campion, the Comets lost 3 - 2 in overtime.

In exhibition play the boys split games with Saskatchewan Teachers' College, Saskatoon, and defeated Ft. Qu'Appelle Juveniles and H.M.C.S. Queen.

The team was coached by Gerald Kleisinger and managed by Murray Huber and Ken McCullough.

We wish to congratulate you on your choice of a career. Never before in our history have we required capable and well-qualified teachers more than we do today.

When you enter the classroom in the fall, you will want your pupils to learn by seeing and doing as well as from books. A chartered bus opens up countless opportunities for educational tours in our province.

Plan now to use an economical Saskatchewan Transportation Company chartered bus during the coming school term as an aid to you in the education of your pupils.

HOW TO USE A BOOK

Here is your new yearbook. Between its covers are the highlights of a year's memorable activities and events upon which you will reflect with pride and enjoyment in the years to come. This has been superbly portrayed by the yearbook staff in a high quality book designed to prolong its use as a cherished memento.

Many years can be added to the life of your yearbook with proper care in handling it now while it's new. Its binding can be permanently damaged with severe misuse now.

Here are a few simple suggestions to help you preserve your yearbook:

1. Stand the book with its backbone resting upon a smooth, hard surface.
2. Let the front and back cover fall open while you hold the pages.
3. Open a few pages from the front and gently press them flat against the cover board.
4. Do the same from the back.
5. Continue with this procedure, alternating between the front and back of the book.

The binding will become supple and more useable with less strain.

Avoid opening the book more often than necessary for a few days. When not in use keep it closed and under a weight. Never open the book wider than necessary or force the cover away from the inside part. Don't suspend the book by the cover alone.

These suggestions are offered in a sincere effort to allow your yearbook to give you satisfaction always.
